NAVAL VOLUNTEER RESERVE MAY BE FORMED IN HONG KONG

LOCAL WATER RESTRICTION'S INCREASED

Serious Position Owing To Drought.

6-HOUR SUPPLY FOR ISLAND

The condition of the reservoirs, coupled with the continued drought, is causing considerable anxiety to the authorities, and it has become necessary to restrict further the present hours of supply to all parts of the island of Hong Kong, though for the present the 10 hours supply will be maintained in Kowloon.

The Water Authority to-day notifies the public that a 6 hours supply only will be available as from Saturday, September 9, and that, in all districts except the Peak, the hours of supply will be from 6 to 9 a.m. and 4.30 to 7.30 p.m.

The hours on the Peak will be 6 to 9 a.m. and 5 to 8 p.m.

Residents are requested to exercise every possible economy in the use of water. Failing a considerable increase in storage within the few weeks further restrictions will be necessary.

OVER 27 INCHES BELOW AVERAGE RAINFUL

The total rainfall in the Colony during the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. to-day, amounted to .20 inch, according to the report issued by the Royal Observatory.

Total rainfall since January is 40.80 inches, against an average of 68.16 inches.

HEATH FIRES IN S. ENGLAND

Troops, Police And Fire Brigades Engaged.

WATER SHORTAGE HINDERS WORK OF FIGHTERS

London, To-day.

Troops stripped to the waist and wearing steel helmets and gas-masks were again engaged yesterday in fighting heath fires along the borders of Hampshire and Surrey.

The countryside for nearly eight miles had been burning in the previous night's fire but, although its progress was stopped by the efforts of troops, police and civilians, smouldering patches again broke out in several places yesterday, notably along the Ringwood-Wimborne road.

Fire Brigades are using thousands of feet of hose, but the scarcity of water adds to the difficulties of the fire-fighters.

Troops were yesterday patrolling all areas where further outbreaks were likely and were to remain on duty throughout the night.

Smoke clouds from the heath lands could be seen for many miles.—British Wireless Service.

DEVELOPMENT OF JEHO.

Peipiu - Chengteh Line Construction.

Peking, To-day.

A railroad between Peipiu and Chengteh, an extension of the existing railway to Chinchow, is under construction.

Work on this new line is expected to be completed to Pingchen next month, while the section from Pingchen to Chengteh may be finished at the end of this year.—Central News Agency.

BRITISH CRUISER ORDERED TO BAHAMA ISLANDS

Rumours Of Unrest Following Hurricane Havoc

Barbados, To-day.

The British cruiser, H.M.S. Danae, has been ordered to proceed to Nassau, the capital of the Bahama Islands, where it is rumoured that trouble has broken out following the hurricane which struck the Islands last week.—Reuter.

LORD GREY SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

War-Time Foreign Secretary.

DISTINGUISHED CAREER

London, To-day.

Viscount Grey of Falloden, England's famous Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs from 1905 to 1916, died at his home at Falloden, this morning.

Viscount Grey, K.G., P.C., F.R.S., D.L., D.C.L., had been suffering from an unnamed malady for some months, and it was learned on August 29 that his condition had become serious. He had previously consulted eye-specialists in London, being practically blind.

Forecasted World War.

Recognised as one of the few statesmen of his day who foresaw and fought against the Great War, Viscount Grey was, up to the time of his illness, one of the foremost political commentators.

Seventy-one years of age, he had been Chancellor of Oxford University since 1928. Educated at Winchester and Balliol, Oxford, he became Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in 1892, and held that post until 1895, when he won the Barwick-on-Tweed seat for the Liberal Party. He represented that constituency until 1916. After his long term as Foreign Secretary, he was appointed temporary Ambassador to Washington in 1919.

Viscount Grey was well-known as a sportsman, and in 1926, he won the M.C.C. and Queen's Club tennis prize. He was also an authority on fly-fishing, publishing a book on the subject in 1899. In addition, he was the author "Twenty-five Years," "Falloden Papers" and "The Charm of Birds."

MILK MARKETING SCHEME

Farmers Support Government.

DECISIVE VOTING

London, To-day.

By an overwhelming majority, 150,000 farmers of England and Wales have declared themselves in favour of the Government's milk marketing scheme, under which the sale and collection of milk is controlled by a Board.

The result of a poll of farmers recently taken on the proposed formation of National and regional milk pools was announced yesterday by the National Farmers Union as follows:

In favour, 98.42 per cent.

Against 8.58 per cent.

On the basis of figures declared by Registrars of producers, the number of cows on August 19 last was 1,558,868.

Registered producers who voted in favour of the scheme possess 98.41 per cent. of the cows, and those who voted against own 8.59 per cent.—British Wireless Service.

ROOSEVELT WORRIED BY CUBAN REVOLT

COMMUNISTS SEIZE SUGAR MILLS

TWO MANAGERS TAKE REFUGE ON BRITISH FREIGHTER

HAVANA, TO-DAY.

THE POLITICAL TURMOIL IN CUBA IS RAPIDLY ASSUMING A MORE SERIOUS ASPECT, FOLLOWING THE RESIGNATION ON TUESDAY OF THE CESPEDES GOVERNMENT. YESTERDAY AN UNRULY MOB MADE AN UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO SEIZE AN AMERICAN CITIZEN, WHILE A CROWD OF COMMUNISTS TOOK POSSESSION OF TWO SUGAR MILLS.

A manifesto, guaranteeing order and promising that the old command of the armed forces will shortly be restored, has been issued by the Revolutionary Council.

Early yesterday, a mob of workmen attempted to remove the American manager of the Havana branch of the United Fruit Company from a liner berthed at Havana docks, while later, a crowd of Communists seized two sugar mills, one at Oriente and one at Santa Clara.

THE TWO MANAGERS OF THE LATTER MILL ESCAPED FROM THE MOB, AND TOOK REFUGE ON BOARD A BRITISH FREIGHT STEAMER IN THE HARBOUR.

CONDITIONS GROW WORSE IN CUBA

U.S. Does Not Wish To Intervene.

Washington, To-day.

Reports that the conditions are growing worse in Cuba, especially on the South Coast, were received here yesterday from the United States Ambassador to Cuba, Mr. H. Sumner Welles.

The departure of the United States Secretary of Navy, Mr. Claude Swanson for Havana on board the U. S. S. Indianapolis, was delayed for an hour, the reason not being disclosed.

President Roosevelt and the United States Secretary of State, Mr. William Cordell Hull, yesterday conferred with representatives of the Argentine, Brazil, Chile and Mexico. The President reiterated that the United States did not desire to intervene, and urged that the Cubans should obtain as rapidly as possible, a Government of their own choosing, and one which would maintain order and thus eliminate the necessity of United States intervention.—Reuter.

STEADIER MARKET ON WALL ST.

No Immediate Change Indicated.

New York, To-day.

Following Tuesday's slump in industrials and rails, a steadier tone prevailed on Wall Street, yesterday. No immediate change is indicated.

The silver market, generally, was featureless, although some switching was done for September.

Industrials recovered .11 to 100.38, while rails, utilities and bonds declined .57, .03 and .29 to 49.85, 29.30 and 29 to 49.35, 29.80 and 88.57 respectively. Business showed a little increase on Tuesday's trading 1,800,000 shares changing hands.

CONTROLLING SALE OF GOLD.

U.S. Treasury Issues Regulations.

Washington, To-day.

The regulations issued by the United States Treasury for the sale of newly-mined gold by Federal Reserve Banks acting as agents for producers, lay down that consignments shall be of not less than two ounces of fine gold and that no consignment shall contain less than 200 parts of gold in 1,000 by assay.

Gold may be sold to the art, industries and professions at world market prices, and it passed at these prices may be offered to foreign purchasers.—Reuter.

A Mass was celebrated at St. Andrew's Catholic Church Dublin on August 12 for the repose of the souls of Arthur Griffiths, Michael Collins and Kevin O'Higgins. A parade which was to have been held by the "Blue Shirts" was abandoned by General O'Duffy.

SENSATIONAL DISCLOSURES BY LLOYD GEORGE

"War Memories" Published To-day.

SCATHING CRITICISM OF LORD KITCHENER

London, To-day.

The most scathing criticisms of Lord Kitchener and other outstanding figures of war years, are uttered by Mr. Lloyd George in the first volume of his "War Memories," published to-day.

The book, which details events up to 1915, pungently attacks many Generals and alleges that the War Office was a "Perpetual Source of Obstruction" when Mr. Lloyd George set out to organise the Ministry of Munitions.

The book relates that after the battle of Neuve Chapelle, Sir John French's urgent plea for more ammunition was met by a complaint that the Artillery used 13 rounds per gun daily.

Referring to the decline of Lord Kitchener's prestige, Mr. Lloyd George reveals that Kitchener never knew that the Germans and Austrians had crossed the Danube until 20 hours after the news of the crossing had reached the War Office. When Lord Carson heard of the matter at the Cabinet meeting, he passed Mr. Lloyd George a note which read as follows: "K doesn't read the telegrams, and we do not see them. It is intolerable."—Reuter.

PIRACY CAPTIVES TO BE RELEASED

Nanchang Officers May Be Freed To-day.

Newchwang, To-day.

The negotiations for the release of the 22 Nanchang captives have successfully terminated through the Japanese captain of guardship, Captain Ohata.

The captives are expected to be released on this morning.—Reuter.

The Nanchang piracy occurred on March 20, while the ship was at anchor off Newchwang Bay. The ship's officers, including the captain, were taken aboard and held for a ransom of 100,000 dollars.

The ship was a Japanese merchant vessel, the "Mitsushima," and was carrying a cargo of goods and passengers.

The piracy was a serious blow to Japanese shipping in the region, and the release of the captives is a significant step towards restoring normal trade relations.

NEW U.S. CRUISER LAUNCHED

13th of 18 Allowed By London Treaty.

Philadelphia, To-day.

The new United States cruiser, the "Albatross," was launched at the Philadelphia Navy Yard yesterday.

The ship is the 13th of 18 allowed by the London Treaty, and is the first of a new class of cruisers.

The "Albatross" is a 1,000-ton cruiser, armed with six 6-inch guns and four 3-inch guns. She is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The launch ceremony was attended by a large number of officials and guests, and the ship was named by the daughter of the President.

NAVY DAY ON OCT. 21

RESIDENTS MAY INSPECT WARSHIPS

Navy Co-operation With Public.

CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS FOR DISPLAY

Hong Kong is to have a Navy Day on Trafalgar Day, October 21. The programme will follow the lines of the British Navy Week, thus giving local residents an opportunity of looking over the various classes of ships stationed here.

The Commodore, Capt. Frank Elliott, O.B.E., to-day informed the "China Mail" that the object of the celebration was to foster better relations between the residents of Hong Kong and the Navy.

"There will be two cruisers from the Fifth Cruiser Squadron, the Eighth Destroyer Flotilla and several submarines in port, and we intend showing the public of Hong Kong some of the workings of submarines and destroyers in the Naval basin," the Commodore said.

Sailors dressed as women will sell flags in the streets.

The Commodore stressed the possibility of the formation of a Hong Kong Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, which, although turned down in 1929 when the Labour Government were in power, will now probably meet with some success.

Capt. D. Euan Wallace, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, arrives in the Colony on October 19.

Colonel L. G. Bird, D.S.O., O.B.E., Commander of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, when sounded on the proposal for the establishment of a Naval Volunteer Reserve, also said he could make no statement, "as it was really a matter for the authorities to deal with."

Mr. A. L. Shields, Commodore of the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club, declined to comment on the proposed formation of a Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, but expressed a view that such a force would doubtless meet with local support.

"RED" PRISONERS PUNISHED.

80 Given Solitary Confinement.

SEQUEL TO ATTACK ON STORM TROOPER.

Berlin, To-day.

Eighty Communists, confined in a concentration camp at Wittmoor, near Hamburg, were yesterday placed in solitary confinement for three days, as retaliation for an attack on a Nazi Storm Trooper by alleged Communists.

Hot meals will not be supplied and the men will have to sleep on plank beds without blankets.—Reuter.

BANK LOANS FOR FLOOD VICTIMS.

$10,000,000 Borrowed By Nanking Government.

Shanghai, To-day.

It is stated that the Nanking Ministry has reached tentative arrangements with eight leading Chinese banks, including the Bank of China, the Bank of Communications and the Bank of Shanghai, for a loan of $10,000,000 to be entirely devoted to emergency relief in the flood-stricken areas along the Yellow River.

This loan is to be secured on Customs surplus and repaid over a period of 12 months.—Central News Agency.

Present Vogue Of Lace

Practical And Attractive.

MANY KINDS, MANY USES

The revival of lace in every form is a challenge to organdie. It serves more purposes, is practical, easy to pack and attractive in wear.

The lace ensemble is one of the most satisfactory garments in the ready-to-wear category. The smartest West-end establishments stock an enormous variety of lace gowns in black, cream, coloured and metal patterns. Further, they are not expensive.

Characteristically modern is the bold Spanish pattern in cotton. Beige or pale green are still leading favourites in colour.

Older women look well in either of these shades, and they are exactly what is suitable at various pleasant places, such as polo afternoons, at Ranelagh or Hurlingham, the cocktail party and the play.

Accessories.

The accessories with lace are easy. With the beige ensemble there should be the matching kid, stitched with either a darker or lighter tone for gloves, shoes, and pochette, and a hat of beige felt, or the more fanciful velvet cap may be worn.

With green lace, dark green kid shoes, trimmed white, are smart, and gloves seem in good style, but the hat, if of straw, must look like a fabric, and gloves of white wash-leather or antelope should be worn. The cream velvet cap or white felt with a green wood or enamel ornament would look well. The point of the newest and smartest ensembles in lace is that they are rather on the simple side. Therefore any idea of age, which we once associated with the wearing of lace, is discounted.

An important sartorial point is the changing accessories that can mark any event. For example, a net lace frock with neat and small design can be put on even in the morning in London, but a plain white panama or fabric hat or cap, with neat white shoes and gloves, will look smarter and in better taste than the more elaborate styles suitable for afternoon wear.

A Rival to Organdie.

There is no doubt that lace in its newer variety is for late summer ousting the popular organdie. Also there is a splendid selection of woollens for both day and night wear.

Very new for early autumn are some real dinner frocks of metal lace, in dull gold, bronze, or silver. These light designs look well worn with coloured velvet capelets, lined with the fragile metal fabric. The latest form of metal laces are wonderfully light, and resemble very transparent network. A layer of pale rose or blue chiffon beneath gives a soft, shadowy look which is very becoming.

FASHION'S COLOUR CHART

A great Paris dressmaker, famed for her taste in dress, says that the most popular shade of the season takes its hue from the first butterfly of the year, seen by the most beautiful girl in France!

INTERESTING HAT TRIMMINGS.

Feathers And Flowers.

Trimnings for hats are interesting. A beret, for instance, will have two or three feathers stuck at odd angles in either the back or front. A trim hat may have a little flower and a bunch of ribbon sewn in the centre of the folded crown.

Feather mounts, felt flowers, and lacquered leather flowers are also used. And quite new is the hand-embroidered, dull, gros-grain material which milliners are making into close-fitting caps, with a large knob on the top.

FOR SPORT AND SEA-SIDE

Sophisticated Black
Wear.

PYJAMAS STILL POPULAR

For the seaside and spectator sports wear, the smartest kit you can possess is a trimly tailored suit in light grey with several jumpers and blouses to vary the appearance and extend its uses. Add to these blouses one of black crepe and a seaside suit can make quite a smart appearance in town. Linen also appears in conjunction with other materials.

One very smart tweed coat has a half cape of linen with a big open check, and a design embroidered on every alternate square; the bishop sleeves are in the same embroidered linen. Many of the new crepe de chine frocks are now being made with two jackets, one of crepe de chine to match and the other of linen in a natural shade or pastel hue.

For beach wear pyjamas are still fashionable. If your figure is slim and boyish, you will find the masculine shorts and sweater ensemble very attractive, the tailored shorts are often made in a gay check to wear with a plain sweater and a check tie.

For more sophisticated beach wear there are smart "three-pieces," consisting of a swim-suit, wrap-around skirt, and a tailored jacket or cape. These may be completed by belt, scarf, and bag to match—the bag possessing an inner water-proof pocket for carrying damp bathing kit.

DULL FASHION

Dullness of surface seems to be increasingly popular in many respects. Transparent velour-mousseline is following the trend, and has reduced its beams to modest ones.

Satin Stylish For Mid-Season

Black "The Thing" For Early Autumn.

HEAT NO OBSTACLE

Satin, be it said, is going to cut quite a figure during the period in which Summer fashions are on the wane and Autumn fashions in the making. Satin for street, for afternoon, for evening.

For daytime, black will be the thing; for evening, there will be a wider range; unless we miss our guess, there will be a preference for darker shades—the green of evergreens, those blues that are almost prints, and rich, soft browns.

Every year just when the days are hottest and we are all pulling out our thinnest organzas and our biggest hats, conversation turns to black. Paris is wearing black; black is "the thing" for late Summer and early Autumn. Every one pretends to be surprised.

For hot August nights sheer black is unsurpassed. Here again black net scores. The black satins openings tell the story of style trends. A few things can be deduced from them.

BRIDGE NOTES

TRUMP CONSERVATION

By ELY CULBERTSON

Everyone who has sat down at the Bridge table has seen what appeared to be an ample supply of trumps melt away before the barrage of the defending players who compelled the Declarer to use his trumps to stop the run of an adverse suit. There are situations when a policy of wise trump conservation should be adopted by the Declarer, otherwise he is apt to find not only that his contract is impossible, but that it is doomed to disastrous defeat. The policy of discarding a loser on a loser, while not nearly as generally known as the play of discarding a loser on a winner, is one that in many cases pays just as rich dividends.

To-day's hand, which was sent me by Mr. Paul B. Galer of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, is directly to the point. Mr. Galer played the East hand in a Duplicate match and triumphantly fulfilled his contract through his adherence to the policy of trump conservation.

THE BIDDING:

1—East's values do not justify a rebid. However, his defence against the diamond bid is weak and he hopes to buy the contract himself or else force his opponents beyond their depth.

2—West's support for a rebiddable spade suit is adequate, although his raise to game is extremely optimistic.

3—If North could have peered into the future, doubtless he would have bid five diamonds for a sacrifice. He would lose only one club, one heart and two spades, which if doubled would mean a penalty of only 200 points as opposed to the game scored by East. However, North felt that it was preferable to take a chance on defeating the contract, which it was apparent from the pace of the bidding that neither East nor West, considered certain, than to bid five diamonds and thus accept a penalty.

4—East found in his six-card suit the justification for a Rebid for game. The more prudent course would have been to stop at three, as East realized when the Dummy went down after South had led a spade.

5—North won the first spade trick and returned the suit. While it is not generally considered good play to hasten the opportunity for ruffs by the short trump hand, North had a rather difficult hand from which to lead, and he felt that no

South opened a diamond in response to his partner's bid and East won with a trump. A club was then led to the Ace in Dummy and North won the return of the suit with the King. North returned the diamond and East again trumped, so his five trumps had been reduced to three, the same number as one of his opponents held. In order to avoid additional forces in the diamond suit, Mr. Galer now led a club and while South played the Queen, the commanding card of the suit, Mr. Galer refused to trump in the Dummy, but instead discarded the remaining diamond. This was the decisive step in the policy of trump conservation. It is, of course, apparent that for South to lead another diamond or a heart would be to give East his contract, so South shifted to the trumps and East won the trick. East then led a heart which South won with

WEARING A RED BERET

Can Be A Crime In Spain.

EX-MAYOR OF TARAZONA GOES TO GAOL

Tarazona (Aragon).

It is a crime to wear a red beret here, and the wearer may be fined or imprisoned.

When the aristocrat Don Federico de Bertodano Roncalli, ex-Mayor of this town, walked through the streets in a red beret, the Civil Governor imposed on him a fine of 100 pesetas (£2.10s at current rates).

A red cap is the badge of the Traditionalist party here, which represents the Conservative and Royalist elements of society, and Senor de Bertodano is well known for his determined political opinions.

As a matter of principle the ex-Mayor refused to pay the fine and is now serving a sentence of fifteen days' imprisonment. He is daily receiving numbers of letters from Traditionalists in Aragon who approve his action. —Reuter.

2,000-YEAR-OLD TOWEL FOUND

Unearthed Relic Of Ancient Rome.

RESEMBLES PRESENT TYPE.

Rome.

A beautifully woven Roman towel, in perfect state of preservation, has been found in a funeral urn of the Imperial epoch.

It is about the size of a modern hand towel, with fringes, and was found wrapped round the ashes of an unknown Roman of the early Christian era.

The urn had preserved its seal intact throughout the centuries. In addition it contained balsam with a basis of camphor, and this acted as a preservative for the cloth.

The towel is almost unique of its kind. Archaeologists think it may prove that the Romans habitually used a towel to wrap up the ashes of their dead before putting them into urns.

The towel is on view in Rome. —Reuter.

PENINSULA HOTEL ROSE ROOM.

Re-opening On Oct. 7.

SPECIAL ENTERTAINMENT ARRANGED.

The reopening of the Peninsula Hotel Rose Room will take place on Saturday, October 7. The function is recognised as "the event of the season", and this year the dance will extend to 2 a.m. while entertainment will be provided by artists who are on their way to Hong Kong direct from the United States. Their names will be advertised in due course.

The menu will include delicacies calculated to satisfy the most discriminating connoisseur. Furthermore, it is rumoured that a big surprise is being prepared for the benefit of patrons.

LOCAL WEDDING.

Mr. G. P. Murphy And Miss Violet Hard.

The wedding took place on Tuesday at the Registry Office of Mr. G. P. Murphy of the Public Works Department and Miss Violet Hard. The bride was attired in a charming ensemble of ivory elephant crepe, trimmed with crystals, and a smart beret, of the same material with a tulle veil. Her bouquet was of white gladioli.

Her mother was attired in a lace ensemble artistically carried out in beige and tangerine silk lace. She wore a French hat, to tone, and carried a bouquet of flame coloured gladioli.

The bride's going away dress was a delightful creation of sapphire blue and dove, after a model by Jean des Caynes. Her hat and shoes were also of these shades.

THE SWASTIKA

Origin Lost In The Mists Of Time.

ITS SIGNIFICATION

From time immemorial, signs and symbols have been used. Men cannot think but in symbols; words themselves are symbols of thought. The whole universe is a symbol and God is the essence behind.

The mystic Swastika is one of the oldest and most universal of all symbols. It was used centuries before the Christian era and its permutations have touched most parts of the world. It is found in China, Tibet, Japan, Persia, India, North Africa and Scandinavia.

The Nazi Emblem. At one time it was thought that it was the Buddhists who carried it all over the world, but it has been found that ages before Buddhism existed, it was used among nations. In old Babylon and in Egypt it was to be found and it was used by the ancient Hindus at rituals such as worship and sacrifice.

To-day it has been adopted by Adolf Hitler as his badge and the Nazi Storm Troops display it on their armlets and flags.

This sign was used to represent a flame of sacred fire, the sun in its daily rotation, or a flash of lightning, and signified benediction, health, good-omen.

In America, in pre-Columbian times, it was in common use by the Aborigines and was thought to have indicated the four cardinal points and to symbolize the ruler of the winds and rains.

It is found in Chinese wedding robes as a symbol of good augury, and in Chinese decorative art it signifies "the Creation."

Variations of the Symbol. Sometimes the arms of the Swastika are bent to the right and sometimes to the left.

Professor Max Muller holds that if the arms are leftwards, it denotes luck, whereas sometimes Buddhists maintain that the arms should be to the right.

In some cases the Swastika has suffered variations, as in the case of the trikele in the arms of Sicily and of the Isle of Man.

The Swastika has been found depicted on tombs at Hissarlik near ancient Troy, on coins of Gaza and Corinth, on rock carvings in Sweden and on Celtic stones in Britain. As a protective charm against the "evil eye" it is found to-day on cuffs, links and pendants. Peasants in Southern Italy wear as their earrings a similar device.

ARMED ROBBERY WITH VIOLENCE.

Accused Remanded.

A sum of $8,700 and a quantity of valuable jewellery were the subject of the charge against a Chinese, Wu Chiu Wing, at the Central Police Court this morning, of committing armed robbery, with others not yet arrested, at 275 Des Voeux Road Central on July 17 last, and of using personal violence to the complainant, Shly Mui Fung. On the application of Detective Sub-inspector Murphy, a week's formal remand was granted. Mr. Shing Lo, appeared for the defence.

QUEER NEWS FROM CORNERS OF WORLD

Japan's Tribute To Thomas Edison.

NOVEL RACE IN MARYLAND

London.

Queer things, some of them very queer, which happen all over the world are recorded by Reuter correspondents. Here is a selection:—

A monument to Mr. Thomas Edison, the inventor, is being set up by the villagers of Yahata, in the Yoto prefecture.

This is why. When Edison was creating the electric lamp, he hit upon the use of Japanese bamboo, after carbonisation, for the filaments.

Hence, a demand for bamboo, bringing wealth to Yahata.

Aesop Was Right. Aesop has been proved right at the John Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, Maryland.

Following the annual tortoise race in the hospital grounds, the winner was pitted against a hare.

Just as in the Aesop fable, the tortoise plugged along steadily and passed the finishing line well ahead of its speedy but erratic rival.

Bandit Menace in Spain. The days of highwaymen are not past in some parts of Spain. Twenty masked "men of the road" rode up to a farm near Seville in broad daylight.

They stole the aged farmer's corn, and shot him dead when he tried to frustrate them. No arrests have yet been made.

Jealousy At 76. Jealousy caused a 76-year-old man to quarrel with his wife, aged 70, and to stab her to death in San Sebastian, Spain.

He said that he could not bear to think that she might not love him any more.

Child Bartered For Ass. A gypsy has been arrested in Almeria, Spain. It is alleged that he sold his child, aged 5, in exchange for a donkey.

Austria's "Wild" Man. Tourists on the Elchberg, near Gloggnitz, Lower Austria, came upon a wild-looking man in a cave among the rocks.

At first he fled from them, but eventually spoke to them and proved to be an educated man born in Vienna.

Long unemployment has caused him to flee the haunts of man. He lives on berries and mushrooms, and says that he is so happy that he has no wish to return to civilisation.

Spanish Bean Gestes. Two kind-hearted Spanish waiters are walking from Alicante to Puerto Santa Maria, a distance of 400 miles, in order to serve a hearty meal to prisoners in goal there for political offences.

They will cook the meal themselves. —Reuter.

AID FOR GOETHE'S DESCENDANTS

Austrian Ex-Chancellor Heads Committee.

CHILDREN IN ORPHANAGE

Vienna.

A discovery made on the occasion of last year's Goethe centenary, that descendants of the great German poet and writer were in a Vienna home for poor children, is to have a happy sequel. Ex-Chancellor Hainisch is heading a committee which has been formed to help these children, Theodor and Fritz Goethe.

Theodor, aged five and Fritz, aged four, are the sons of a bank clerk who received an excellent education but was "axed" and has long been out of work.

The Austrian Goethes are related to the German family through common descent from Hans Christian Goethe, who, in the 17th Century, was a blacksmith in Artern in Germany. One of his sons, a tailor, moved to Frankfurt, and his son was the famous Goethe. —Reuter.

GERMAN MINISTER TO MEXICO.

Baron von Collenburg Appointed.

PRESENT CONSUL-GENERAL AT SHANGHAI.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The Evening Post learns that Baron Ruedt von Collenburg, the German Consul-General in Shanghai, who is now in Germany on furlough, will be appointed Minister to Mexico City, to which place he will proceed without returning here.

The Evening Post says that this news has been received in Shanghai by private sources, but hitherto the German Consul-General has received no notification on this subject. —Reuter.

CHURCH WITHOUT CONGREGATION.

Passports Needed For Border Chapel.

Belgrade.

On the Italian border of Yugoslavia there is a little church that stands silent and empty in a graveyard that grows no larger.

It is the village church of Drenova, near Sushak, and it lies just over the Italian border.

Churchgoers, mourners and wedding guests in Drenova all had to have passports and visas. Even corpses on their last journey over the frontier and babies on their first going to be christened, had to be accounted for on paper.

The villagers decided that a change was needed. So they have now built a new church within Yugoslavia, leaving the tomb of their ancestors lonely in another land. —Reuter.

BANDIT-PROOF CAR LOCK ON SHOW

17,576 To 1 Chance Of Theft.

THREE-LETTER COMBINATION

London.

A new keyless lock which can be fitted to any car, rendering it absolutely bandit proof, is being exhibited in London.

The lock is worked on the same principle as that of a combination safe and the security it offers depends upon the fact that the owner has 17,576 three-letter codes from which to choose his combination. It is so designed that it is almost impossible for unauthorised persons to tamper with the mechanism and yet a change from one letter code to another can be effected in a few seconds.

Another feature of the lock is that it locks the ignition switch and fastens the bonnet firmly in position.

Indeed, the only hope of the bandit appears to rest upon the 17,576 to 1 chance of his happening upon the right combination.

The mechanism which operates the lock is clamped to the shaft of the steering wheel. —Reuter.

RUSSIA'S RABBIT FARM "WRECKER"

Ex-Tsarist Official To Be Tried.

DEATH IS MAXIMUM PENALTY

Riga.

A man is to be tried on a charge of "wrecking" a rabbit farm in Moscow, according to a report which has reached Riga.

If he is found guilty, the maximum penalty possible is death. The charge is the sequel to a scheme to organize rabbit farms at every factory, so that the workmen should get their own supply of rabbit meat.

The man in charge of the rabbit farm attached to one Moscow factory, who is now stated to be a former Tsarist official, is alleged to have managed the farm so badly that 60 per cent of the rabbits died.

Now he is reported to have been indicted on a charge of "wrecking" the rabbit farm—a case of "rabbotage?" —Reuter

Mr. Roosevelt's War
On Kidnappers.

In Washington the first sitting has commenced of a Committee of the United States Senate appointed to investigate the "racketeering" evil, with special reference to the crime of kidnapping that in recent years has attained to such a detestable prominence. The problem of "racketeering" is an old one, nor is its investigation by Federal authority a new thing. In most of the big cities a large proportion of the trading activity is carried on subject to the levying of blackmail by criminal gangs who threaten to make the conduct of a man's business impossible by the use of violence, not stopping short of murder. It has been endured because it could not be cured, so long as the alliance between criminals and corrupt local politicians made the police useless for the suppression of the evil—a state of things on which President Hoover's Wickensham Commission reported in the plainest terms two years ago. The payment for "protection," moreover, does usually insure peaceful conduct of business. But for the kidnapping "racket" there has never been any such easy tolerance. The continuance of it has been accompanied by the rising of a tide of violent indignation against the most mean and cruel of all forms of extortion. Twelve States have passed laws making kidnapping punishable, if the Court should so decide, by death. Last month in Missouri that sentence was actually passed for the first time on a convicted offender. But local police inefficiency, or worse, has allowed the crime to flourish, generally speaking, unchecked. The cry has been for Federal action, directed as it is by stronger and cleaner hands. The appalling atrocity of the kidnapping and murder of Col. Lindbergh's infant son last year led to a first change in the law of the land. Abduction from one State into another was made a Federal offence, with a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. But the Department of Justice was insufficiently equipped for the needed police work. President Roosevelt has tackled the matter with characteristic energy. Last month Mr. J. B. Keenan was appointed a special assistant to the United States Attorney General for dealing with this problem; and it was Mr. Keenan whose evidence was heard by the Senate Committee. That evidence plainly indicates that he does not intend to let any technicalities interfere with the successful issue of his campaign. He described his Department's plans for the creation of a special division of experienced crime investigators to co-operate with State authorities and of a mobile police under his own direction to hunt down the criminals. Mr. Keenan was asked the crucial question whether this new organisation would take cognisance only of cases in which State boundaries had been crossed. He made the very reasonable explanation that his Department could not know whether the Federal law had or had not been infringed until the case was complete. "We are going after them," he declared. When, with the co-operation of the State authorities, the criminal was laid by the heels, the matter of jurisdiction could be settled. This is a promising beginning, and may in itself go far to make kidnapping a too dangerous trade. But Mr. Roosevelt is understood to intend, further, to ask Congress for a law under which States may surrender their authority in kidnapping cases to the Federal Government, which could then act without regard to the question of boundaries, or of overlapping jurisdictions. In any case, the formation of a strong police corps d'élite, imbued with the spirit of the Federal Services, is a bold innovation in which Americans will see the promise of an ending to the terror that hangs, as things are, over many homes.

Reviving Emigration.

Canada would seem to be thinking once more of encouraging immigration. Last month the Premier of Ontario announced that his Government were prepared to discuss plans for bringing out a large contingent of British families to be settled on the Crown lands in the north of the province. Even more significant, however, is the declaration of the President of the C.P.R. at Montreal that in his view the time is "opportune" for Canada to enter upon a definite policy of immigration, particularly from Great Britain. These are cheering words, as showing that leading men in the Dominion are making ready for a turn in the long tide of depression. In 1930 the Dominion Government closed down many of its special immigration offices in this country. Of late more persons have been returning to the United Kingdom from Canada than emigrating to that country. Mr. Baillie-Lyall, a well-known Canadian, has been carefully qualified his general statement by adding that "results might be expected in a year or two from plans for inter-empire migration now being worked out in the United Kingdom." That such plans do not always come up to expectations is vividly shown by the hard case of the British settlers in Victoria, whose claims against the Government of that province are to be compensated to the extent of

Mrs. Howe For England

Mrs. Howe, wife of President Roosevelt's right-hand man, landed at Liverpool recently on a six-weeks' visit to England. Her son, who has just graduated with honours at Harvard, arrived before her. Colonel Howe is in attendance on the President.

Mrs. Howe was born at Hartley. Her father was an Englishman who went from Stockport to the States. Colonel Howe is also of English extraction, but his American connections go back to the days of the Pilgrim fathers. He is a Massachusetts man. One of his ancestors was a general on the colonists' side at Bunker's Hill and fought against Lord Howe, the British General.

Fighting The Gumbies

The Colonel has not been in England since 1910—the date of his first meeting with President Roosevelt.

The two men met in the Albany Legislature when Roosevelt was a State senator and Howe a lobby reporter. They are now Louis and Franklin to each other.

The Colonel, who was for years permanent secretary of the National Crimes Association, is now anxious to get a Bill through Congress forbidding the transfer by mail of revolvers and machine-guns from one State to another.

This task, which sounds simple enough, may be difficult.

The resourceful daughter now excuses herself for not getting to bed till the early hours of the morning by saying that she was sitting up for grandma.

NOT MUCH EFFORT.

A doctor declares that the British climate is trying. It is a great pity that it does not try a little harder.

Hint for Politicians.

The quickness of the "and" deceives the "Why?"

The Way Things Go.

In the old days the head of the family used to wonder if that fellow came around the house because he wanted Angelina, or Marjorie; nowadays he wonders if he wants to sell a car, a vacuum cleaner, or insurance.

HIDDEN TALENT

A German actress in Hollywood refuses to have her legs filmed. This makes it very difficult for the critics to decide whether she has any histrionic ability.

LUMP OF LIFE

"G-grh!" growled the song-writer, as he along his wife through the french window and tried once again to settle down and write a line to rhyme with "Love is the one dower that never fades."

Facts You Did Not Know.

Norway's first factory for the manufacture of toys has been opened at Trondheim.

A German fire engine extinguishes flames with streams of dust that does not injure articles with which it comes in contact.

The inventor of a new safety razor claims that it cuts with correct diagonal strokes no matter in what position it may be held.

A Norwegian scientist has advanced a theory that the movements of glaciers forecast the weather and regulate droughts and floods.

2400,000. These settlers, who took up land under a scheme launched as far back as 1922, have been urging their cases for years, and at length a Royal Commission was appointed early in 1931. It reported last April in scathing terms on the "misrepresentation by Federal and State officials whereby British emigrants were induced to settle in Victoria." The lesson of this highly exceptional case will not be lost on all concerned in the promotion of schemes of Imperial settlement.

PERILOUS PLAYBOY
OF THE WESTMR. J. H. THOMAS CALLS
DE VALERA'S BLUFF

"IMPOTENT BOASTER" REVEALED

(By A. A. B.)

London. There is in the Irish situation a mixture of the ludicrous and the criminal, which shows how thoroughly Mr. J. M. Synge understood his countrymen when he wrote that devastating satire "The Playboy of the Western World."

So long as Christy is believed to have murdered his father, the peasant welcome him with affectionate awe and feed him with milk and bacon. When, however, it is discovered that he has not murdered his father, but only hit him on the head, they all turn on him and drive him with blows and curses from their doors.

So long as the Irish believed that de Valera could really injure the British Empire by repudiating their allegiance and their debts he was at the top of the tree. But when Mr. J. H. Thomas called his bluff, and the Irish realised that de Valera could do England no harm, but that he was an impudent and impotent boaster, who was ruining Ireland, his pretensions collapsed like a house of cards.

De Valera's Bluff Called

So true it is, as Lincoln said, that you cannot fool all the people all the time. The Dail has at last found out that de Valera is a dogmatic demagogue whose hymn of hate has not only become monotonous, but is producing results the reverse of what he promised, and only injuries to the Irish Free State. He renounces his allegiance to the Sovereign, and the British Empire still stands, and instead of being sustained by the applause of the New World, America and the Dominions laugh at or ignore him.

He tries political robbery, by intercepting the instalments of purchase money due under the Wyndham Act. What is the result? It is true that the duties imposed by our Government on Irish cattle do not yet equal the stolen annuities, but they may be increased, and, meanwhile, de Valera is forced to present us with his livestock at prices ruinous to his own graziers and helpful to the British Exchequer and to the export trade of the Argentine and to Canada.

Soon it will be realised that millions of Irishmen are living in England and Scotland on the dole, and when our electors discover this, they may insist on Irish labourers being deported to their native soil. In short, the de Valera playboy is turning out to be a costly and dangerous pet.

Ireland's Three Armies

There are, I believe, in Ireland at present three armies. There are the Civic Guards, called in most countries the Police, who wear black shirts. There is the Irish Republican Army, recruited from America, who wear red shirts. There is the blue-shirted army, started by General O'Duffy, who swears he will take no part in any civil war, but is interested in electoral reform.

Despite General O'Duffy's absorption in parliamentary reform, I have a suspicion that if a red shirt were to attack him he would hit back. The three armies of the Irish Free State are united by a common national bond, the readiness to fly at one another's throats.

I have seen the results of Lord Salisbury's "20 years of resolute government," between 1886 and 1906, when Ireland reached a peak of prosperity and contentment, never before or since enjoyed. And we see to-day the results of surrender to rebels and assassins, "the healing of the feud of centuries," so loudly trumpeted by Radical ideologues.

The armies of Irish patriots prowled round one another like cats, and de Valera is in his element, arguing with his Cabinet about the meaning of the Safety Act passed by the Coirgrave Government, and disputing with characteristic subtlety whether O'Duffy's "parade" can be banned, and what will happen if he snaps his fingers at the ban. If I were living in Ireland, I should be afraid of the silence of the Irish Republican Army.

Unity in S. Africa

It is a relief to turn from the extravaganzas of Celtic nonsense to the news that comes from South Africa that Hartzen and Smuts have agreed to bury the hatchet and to fuse Dutch separatism in Imperial unity.

If there is a member of the Empire that might be forgiven for cherishing dreams of independence it is the group including the Transvaal Republic, the Orange Free State, Natal and Cape Colony, to give them their old names. It is only 30 years since we closed the war, which many thought and still think was waged without justification and which provoked the bitterness which all wars engender, leaving as a legacy a British party and a Dutch party.

Our policy of compensating the Boers for fighting them was not so mad as it seemed at the time. It would have been well if the spirit of Vereeniging had been present at Versailles: Europe would have been a different place to-day.

The first fruits of our policy of conciliation appeared in the European War, when Botha and Smuts appeared as our loyal and militant allies. It is due largely to the military genius of Smuts that we expelled the Germans from East and West Africa with so little difficulty. It is due to his ability as a statesman that Smuts has been able to carry the fusion of the old Boer and British parties.

Incompetent Celts

South Africa has not received a tenth part of the boons and benefits which the British Parliaments have showered upon Ireland. The racial ambitions and cultural differences of Natal, the Transvaal, the Orange Free State and Cape Colony are greater than those which have been so sedulously kept alive between the North and the South of Ireland.

The difference in the results lies in the fact that the British, Americans, Dutch, and Germans that people the South African republics are men of commonsense; whereas the Irish Free State is inhabited by Irish Celts, who have now triumphantly proved to the world that they can do anything, write books, and newspapers, and make speeches, but govern themselves.

De Valera Fears I.R.A.

These questions have their commercial as well as their sentimental significance. They are mistaken who ignore the antics of de Valera or laugh at the solemnity of the Blue Shirts.

MOTOR-CAR.Dancer's Tragic Death
Recalled.

Paris. The tragic death of Isadora Duncan, the dancer, is recalled by a fatal accident in a six-year-old boy, Raymond Fischer, at Gif.

While he was driving a toy motor-car, a scarf he was wearing caught in the spokes of one of the wheels and strangled him.

His grandfather found him dead on his back in the car. Isadora Duncan lost her life through her scarf becoming entangled in the wheels of a motor-car which she was driving on the Riviera.—Reuter.

CRAWFORD DROPS A SET,
AND PERRY WINS

Forest Hills, To-day.
The defeat of Frank Parker, 17-year-old American tennis ace, provided the sensation in the Third Round of the American National Men's Singles Championships yesterday. He was beaten by Keith Gledhill, who is better known as Vine's doubles partner, after winning the first set.

George Lott's defeat at the hands of R. Nunoi caused a mild sensation in view of the veteran Davis Cup player's comeback this season. The Japanese challenger dropped the first two sets and then proceeded to secure the match for the loss of only four games in the next three sets.

Ellsworth Vines, the holder, won in straight sets from E. R. Avory, the British player, who is touring Australia after the tournament.

Jack Crawford, who is favoured to win his fourth major title in the same year and thus establish a new tennis record, was fully extended by Tidball, a promising player from Hollywood. The famous Australian was taken to four sets before he won at 7-5.

Fred Perry, the British hope, and Jiro Saton, Japan's leading player, entered the Fourth Round, but the Japanese ace was taken to five sets before he beat George Griffin. Perry's victim was J. Hecht, one of New York's leading contenders.

Frank Shields, favoured in some quarters for the title, decisively beat Don Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup doubles player, but Vivian McGrath, 17-year-old two-handed backhand exponent, accompanied Crawford into the Fourth Round as the result of a convincing win.

Clifford Sutter, who eliminated Canada's only challenger, and William Allison reached the last sixteen, though Allison was given a stern struggle by John Van Ryn, the former Davis Cup doubles player. He lost the first two sets, but won convincingly in the next three.

Scores as cabled by Reuter were:
Third Round
E. Vines (U.S.A.) beat E. R. Avory (Britain) 6-3, 7-5, 6-1.
F. J. Perry (Britain) beat J. Hecht (U.S.A.) 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.
W. Allison (U.S.A.) beat J. Van Ryn (U.S.A.) 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.
C. Sutter (U.S.A.) beat J. Murray (Canada) 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.
K. Gledhill (U.S.A.) beat F. Parker (U.S.A.) 4-6, 6-3, 11-9, 6-3.
J. Crawford (Australia) beat Tidball (U.S.A.) 6-2, 6-8, 6-2, 7-5.
F. X. Shields (U.S.A.) beat D. Turnbull (Australia) 6-4, 8-6, 6-3.
R. Nunoi (Japan) beat G. M. Lott (U.S.A.) 5-7, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.
J. Saton (Japan) beat G. Griffin (U.S.A.) 7-5, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.
V. McGrath (Australia) beat Daventry (U.S.A.) 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

ARSENAL BEAT ALBION AT HIGHBURY

Pompey Held To Draw By Sunderland.

CRYSTAL PALACE AND CREWE DROP FIRST POINTS

London, To-day.
Arsenal, the English soccer league champions, delighted the Highbury crowd yesterday when they beat the Thistles by 3 goals to 1 to record their first home win of the season.

Pompey secured their third point from Sunderland when they held the Roker Park men to a draw after winning their away fixture by two clear goals. Manchester City, last Year's Cup finalists, recorded a home win at the expense of Birmingham, thus bringing off the double against the St. Andrew's team.

Newcastle United proved superior to Blackburn Rovers and won their first home-game of the season.

In the Second Division Bradford avenged their 2-0 defeat earlier in the season when they beat Brentford by 5 goals to 2 in their home fixture. It was the promoted London team's first defeat in four games.

Crystal Palace were surprisingly beaten by Bristol Rovers on their own ground, conceding their first points and goals. In the previous encounter the London team won by the only goal scored.

Norwich City, who have ambitions for first division status, recorded the "double" against Bristol City against whom they have scored 8 goals in the two games. Reading avenged their defeat at Ninian Park earlier in the season when they beat Cardiff City by 3 goals to 1.

Gillingham have concluded their fixtures against Southend with three points as the result of their away win yesterday by the odd goal, and Bournemouth have secured all four points against Watford. In the only remaining game in the southern section Torquay United recorded their first win at the expense of Brighton.

Halifax and Chesterfield secured the "double" against Chester and Wexham, while Darlington repeated their earlier performance when they drew with Gateshead in the northern section. York City surprisingly turned the tables on Crewe Alexandra with a 4-1 win—their first success of the season. This reverse shattered Crewe's 100 per cent. record.

Results as cabled by Reuter were:

GIFT TO LONDON HOSPITAL.

Letter Of Thanks To Miss Capell.

The following letter has been received by Miss Violet Capell from the Hon. Sir William H. Goschen, K.B.E., Chairman of the London Hospital, acknowledging a gift to the hospital of £10, from the proceeds of Miss Capell's last dancing display.

London Hospital,
E.1.

24th July, 1933.

Dear Miss Capell,
It is exceedingly good of you to have sent this generous gift in response to my Quinquennial Appeal. Thank you very much for it.

Your continued interest in the welfare of the "London" is, I can assure you, deeply appreciated, and it is most encouraging to me, as Chairman, to know that the Hospital still has the support of such a good friend as yourself.

I am indeed sorry to hear that you have been so ill, and I do hope you have fully recovered by now.

With all good wishes,
Yours very truly,
W. H. GOSCHEN,
Chairman.

P.S.—Thank you, too, for the Programme of the Dancing Display, which you sent recently.

TAIPO MURDER CHARGE.

Man Committed For Trial.

A Chinese labourer, Tang Po, who was charged with the murder of Li Chin-ku, at Mong Kok, near Ping Shan, in the New Territories on August 24, was committed for trial by Mr. E. H. Williams at the Tai Po District Court yesterday afternoon.

Mr. T. A. Fraser, Assistant District Judge, presided, and Mr. Inspector Chan Wood was in charge of the case.

To-Day's Short Story.

FULL ORCHESTRA

By Gwendoline Pitkin.

SONYA was trembling as she reached Harley-street. A strange hush seemed to have fallen. Long, slanting rays of sunlight crept stealthily across the pavement and threw grotesque shadows over the walls of the sombre houses, which stood dignified and aloof, as though fully conscious of the immense importance of their owners. In imagination she saw the street as a hospital ward; the shining brass plate bearing the name, Dr. Blake Romney, changed to a shining instrument that moved with consummate skill in the hands of the man whose whimsical smile and steadfast eyes won the confidence of all with whom he came in contact. Sonya wondered if Blake Romney had altered and became panic-stricken at the thought. She pressed the bell with sudden, feverish haste.

A second later she faced the austere countenance of the receptionist, who informed her with frigid politeness that Dr. Romney was unable to see anyone without an appointment. Sonya smiled at that. Her confidence was returning. Dr. Romney will see me," she said, quietly.

"I'm sorry, but—" "Please tell him that Mrs. Warlock would like to see him." There was assurance and a certain finality in her tone which, while in no way objectionable, forced upon the receptionist a curious submission. She went away and returned a little later. Sonya followed her along a marble corridor to the consulting room.

If her courage failed her as she stepped over the threshold and met the gaze of the man who rose from his desk to greet her, she did not betray the fact. She said, fighting to keep her voice from trembling: "It was good of you to see me."

Blake Romney might have been watching a ghost as he looked at her. "I'm afraid I hardly grasped the fact that it was you," he said in a deep, resonant voice. "You must forgive me if I seem startled."

"I knew it would have been fatal for me to have 'phoned you," she said. "I didn't want to give you any time to—refuse me."

He studied her thoughtfully, placed a chair in position for her and returned to his desk.

"You were always a strategist," he said, and his voice held a note of sarcasm.

A Difficult Task.

"You've changed," Sonya clasped her hands tightly together in order to stay their shaking.

"One learns a great deal from experience," he replied, coolly.

She lowered her gaze.

"But you didn't come here to discuss me, I take it, and you must forgive me if I can spare only a few minutes."

"You—hate me for worrying you?"

He smiled reflectively.

"Why should I? This is a civilized world." He paused. "Perhaps you may remember telling me that," he added. "Give me credit now for accepting it as a fact."

"Eight years is a long while," she whispered.

"Long enough to forget past unhappiness," he answered more cheerfully. "Now, suppose you tell me exactly why you are here?"

Sonya got up from her chair. The walls of the room seemed to be closing in on her. She was afraid; something in Blake Romney's manner made her task a hundred times more difficult than she had ever imagined it would be. She said suddenly, desperately:

"I want your help, Blake."

"My help?" He was startled.

"You mean that you are ill?"

She met his gaze, bravely.

"No! But my son is—terribly ill," she said.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be

"That Cesar Bonheur," by

Barry Benefield.

"Your son!" His face paled.

"Yes. Spinal trouble; I've had every possible advice."

"I'm sorry." His tone was impersonal. "How old is he?"

"Six." Sonya went on urgently.

"I've brought him up from Cornwall; I've told him about you; I've made him believe in you."

He stared at her.

"Why?" There was a grimace in his voice.

"Because I want you to see him," she replied, quietly.

"That's impossible!"

"Do you allow personal prejudice to influence you in regard to all your patients?" she said swiftly. "Can't you forget that he is my son?"

Can't you think of me as you would think of a stranger?"

"You are not a stranger. Sonya," he said, and his voice was uneven.

"Does your—your husband know that you have come to me?"

She hesitated and avoided his glance. Then:

"Yes," she said, and hurried on.

"But nothing matters save the belief that you can cure Ronnie. I know you can. Look how you worked! Years and years of studying, concentrating on spinal troubles—"

She broke off.

"So you haven't quite forgotten," he said mockingly.

The colour mounted her cheeks.

"Should I be here, if I had? Oh! Blake, can't you think only that somewhere there is a child whom you can cure?"

"A child that might have been mine," he added bitterly. "Life is full of irony. Yet I should be flattered by your trust—in the circumstances."

"Please—"

Blake Romney moved away from his desk. For a second he paced the floor. Then:

Blake Consents—on Conditions.

"I'll see him," he said gravely.

"But only on condition that you allow him to be brought here in order that I may attend him without interference"—he paused and looked at her steadily—"and without visitors," he added.

Sonya put out a hand to steady herself against a chair; her face was white; she felt weak and exhausted.

"I promise," she answered. "I won't intrude."

"You can come along whenever you like, but no one else," he said shortly. "That will make no difference to me. You were right; it's my business to cure people."

"Thank you."

He noticed the trembling of her lips and was strangely moved. Sonya had uttered the words "Thank you" quite low, but still that beautiful, clear, earnest, more beautiful than any he had ever heard before. He had known her to be a woman of a certain kind, but he had not known her to be so good.

ALEC HYDE LAY WINS COLONY BOWLS TITLE

INFALLIBLE SYSTEM WHICH FAILED

Doubling-Up System On Famous Jockey
Collapses.

With Gordon Richards, the champion jockey, having ridden nearly 130 winners this season with excellent prospects of beating Fred Archer's 1885 record of 246 winning mounts in a season, a great many backers are following a system of basing their operations upon support of Gordon Richards' mounts on increasing stakes.

With the champion jockey having ridden four winners at Sandown Park on July 12, three winners again at Leicester, and four winners at the Liverpool fixture his supporters were on good terms with themselves, and had every justification for believing that at last that elusive "philosopher's stone," the infallible system, might be in the offing.

Alas, like all other "will-o-the-wisps," the system crashed just when everything had appeared so promising and its backers have been saddled with a losing run of 10, which has not yet terminated.

The losing sequence is made up as follows:—
Liverpool Guio, 6-5.
Liverpool, Diagram, 8-13; Vain Bachelor, 3-1; Fossab, 2-1; Sunny Anna, 7-1.
Hurst Park, Westley Mill, 5-4; Mystery Ship, 2-5; Partner, 6-2; Tidebrook, 6-1; Sun Prince, 10-1.

On the doubling-up principle of increasing stakes backers who started with an investment of £1 on Guio would have lost £1,023, with prospects of having to invest £1,024 on Gordon's next mount.

FOOTBALLER BOWLS HERBERT TAYLOR FOR "DUCK"

INSPIRED DISPLAY AGAINST LUZ FIRST K.C.C. PLAYER TO WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

COATES BEATS BRADBURY

(By SHORT HEAD.)

FOR the first time in the history of the Colony Lawn Bowls Championship, which was instituted in 1909, a Kowloon-Cricket Club player has won the title.

Yesterday on the Craigengower green Alec Hyde Lay, who had failed to reach the semi-final stages in previous years, caused the biggest sensation of an eventful season when he beat Raoul Luz, the 1929 champion, runner-up in 1930, and winner of third prize last year, by 21 shots to 15 after a magnificent exhibition on 20 ends. Hyde Lay lost to Luz by 21-18 in the Second Round last year.

In the play-off for third prize A. E. Coates, whom the new champion beat, defeated B. W. Bradbury by 21 shots to 12 after 19 ends.

HYDE-LAY played magnificent bowls, and was undoubtedly the better player on yesterday's play. He was more confident with his shots, and displayed keener judgement.

The game opened with Luz drawing well with his third wood to take a single. Hyde-Lay was too heavy with his shots. The second end resulted in two more for the Reccelo skip. He drew dead to the clear with his second shot to lie for one end, with Hyde-Lay failing to clear the lay, he drew again to take two points.

Many were of the opinion that Luz would carry on as well as he had begun and overwhelm the K.C.C. player, but the third head saw Hyde-Lay draw level.

Luz was laying first shot, but Hyde-Lay rested his wood with a well-judged shot to displace Luz. The Reccelo player was much too heavy with his last wood, and Hyde-Lay drew well to take three.

Luz's Drive Fails

The K.C.C. man took another point on the next end, drawing nicely with his first two woods, and knocking up with his third. Luz was wide with each attempt, his last effort being a drive which, although it scattered the woods, left Hyde-Lay with the shot.

Luz drew level on the 5th end. Hyde-Lay had placed two woods in a good position, but the Reccelo player with his last wood sent down a beautifully judged shot, cannoning off his own wood to trail the jack and take a single.

Both players were playing great bowls at this stage, alternately drawing nearer to the jack with each successive shot.

On the sixth end, Hyde-Lay was laying first shot, but was taken out with a nice effort by Luz, whose wood was in turn taken out by a great effort on Hyde-Lay's part which gave him two points.

Hyde Lay Retains Lead

Having taken the lead, Hyde-Lay retained it until the end, gradually increasing his score by sound all-round play.

The ninth end provided surprises. Hyde-Lay placed the jack very short, and drew well with his first wood. The short end appeared to trouble Luz, who was not drawing at all well, being wide on both hands, and Hyde-Lay improved his lie with each wood, to secure a four!

Hyde-Lay took another point on the next head after Luz had drawn very close to the jack. The K.C.C. player was applauded for a glorious effort, resting his wood with a delicate draw to take first shot. Hyde-Lay was now enjoying a seven shots lead.

Luz trailed the jack on the 11th end, and with Hyde-Lay just missing, improved the lay to two. The K.C.C. player, however, took out one opposing wood leaving one shot to Luz.

The Reccelo skip took another point on the next end when Hyde-Lay was narrow in his attempt to draw.

NEW CHAMPION'S VICTIMS

Hyde Lay the new bowls champion defeated the following in the correct order of rounds in this year's competition:
Beat L. E. Lammet on a w.o.
Beat S. Deacon 21-3.
Beat R. P. Phillips 21-18.
Beat A. W. Grimmitt 22-19.
Beat A. E. Coates 21-17.
Beat R. F. Luz 21-15.

Champion Favours Forehand

For opening shots, Luz favoured the backhand, while Hyde-Lay preferred the forehand, which proved more deadly with his drawing shots.

The 13th head saw Hyde-Lay take another four, the second in the match. Hyde-Lay's first three woods were all the results of brilliant bowling. Luz, in attempting to draw, only succeeded in knocking up one of his opponent's woods. Lying three, Hyde-Lay sent up a glorious shot to increase the lay to four.

The next end was very open. After six woods had been played the nearest shot was at least two feet from the jack with a measure necessary. Hyde-Lay, however, drew well to take first position, but was nearly taken out by a great effort by Luz, who secured two points.

The K.C.C. player had his revenge on the following end, for, with Luz lying for two shots and the approach well blocked, he was loudly applauded for a marvellous draw which gave him a single.

The 16th end resulted in Luz taking two points. Hyde-Lay, in attempting to draw, knocked up Luz's wood and the Reccelo skip increased the lay with his last shot.

Hyde-Lay took a single on each of the next two heads, but Luz was unlucky not to score on the 18th.

Hyde-Lay had drawn dead to the jack, his wood being directly in front. After a close inspection, Luz cleverly placed a wood directly behind, obviously with a view to driving with his next shot. Hyde-Lay failed to block, and Luz went very close indeed, with his drive, missing the jack by only a fraction of an inch.

The Reccelo skip was by no means beaten and his four on the 19th end was the result of brilliantly placed shots. Hyde-Lay was very wide, and with each wood Luz drew well to the jack, his last shot being perfect.

Hyde Lay Takes Risk

The end, however, came, on the 20th head. Hyde-Lay drew very close with his first two woods, and Luz almost, but not quite displaced him. The woods were all close to the jack with Hyde-Lay lying for first shot. To increase the lay to the two necessary to carry off the championship called for a great draw, which was at the same time very dangerous. A little too much weight would probably have given his opponent a couple of points.

Hyde-Lay, however, took the risk and his last shot was well worthy of a champion, resting almost dead to the jack to give him the cham-

BRADBURY SHORT
THROUGHOUT

On the Craigengower Club green, before a large gathering of bowls enthusiasts A. E. Coates the Craigengower No. 1 defeated B. W. Bradbury his skip by 9 shots to 5 to secure third place in the Open Singles Championship.

Coates won on account of his consistently good drawing. Throughout the game he placed his first wood in front of the jack and the second behind and these tactics stood him in good stead, for Bradbury was short on practically every head. It is safe to say that the only time Bradbury scored was when with his last wood he either drew for the lie or cleared Coates's woods by driving. Coates deservedly won but in fairness to Bradbury it must be said that whatever luck there was in the game favoured Coates. On two or three occasions Bradbury bowled to the jack only to see his wood roll back to give Coates the lie by an inch or so.

Coates took control of the game on the 5th head when drawing well with three great shots. On the 6th he again drew well for a good 2, Bradbury doing well to get through for the third shot.

On the next end Coates drew well on to the 'jack' and Bradbury was unfortunate with a great drive which sent the jack yards away for a long measure which went in Coates's favour.

The 16th head was a very poor one, all the woods being at least two yards away from the 'jack', Coates making the score 17-11 after an intricate measure. The 17th head saw the end in sight when Coates luckily scored a three.

Bradbury staved off defeat for another head by trailing the jack with his second wood and again with his third, but he lay only one at the end of the head. Coates's first wood on the 18th head settled the issue when he covered the jack with a splendid effort, Bradbury being too narrow to alter the lie.

The detailed scores of the game, which was umpired admirably by Mr. A. W. Bliss, were as follow:

AUSTIN'S SECRET OF SUCCESS.

Able To Breathe Through Nose.

London, Aug. 25. H. W. Austin, England's famous Davis Cup lawn tennis player, has this week revealed that the secret of his brilliant return to form and strength actually lies in the fact that he can now breathe freely through his nose.

A year ago he took his wife to a Harley Street specialist, who noticed that his breathing was bad, and casually remarked: "How on earth do you manage to run about a tennis court breathing like that?" An examination revealed an obstruction completely closing one side of "Bunny's" nose and a subsequent operation made a new man of him.

WINGFIELD SCULLS

GUYE BEATEN BY A LENGTH

Southwood's Splendid Spurt.

THRILLING FINISH

BY G. C. DRINKWATER.

August 12. L. F. Southwood, of Thames R.C., yesterday won the amateur championship of the United Kingdom from the holder, Denis Guye, of London R.C., by one length, in the record time of 21 min. 11 sec., after one of the most thrilling races it has been my privilege to watch.

The previous best time for the Wingfield Sculls was T. D. A. Collet's 2-min. 47 sec. in 1929, while Ernest Barry's professional record for the course is 21 min. 12-5 sec., which he established in his match with George Towns in 1908. Collet won a match with Jack Beresford in 1926 in 21 min. 32 sec.

The conditions yesterday were of course, very fast—a fine tide with a fresh easterly breeze behind it.

The winners of the three preliminary heats on Wednesday were Southwood, who started yesterday on the Middlesex station, Guye in the centre, and C. K. H. Buckle, of Margate, Camb., on Surrey. Although he went off at the slower stroke Southwood at once took a lead, but Guye soon came up to him, and at Craven Steps the latter was well clear in 2 min. 36 sec., with Buckle some 3 lengths down on Southwood.

Southwood Fouls Motor-ship. Southwood was gaining below the Mile Post, but fouled a motor-ship anchored in mid-stream. At the Mile Post Guye led by over two lengths in 4 min. 45 sec., and Buckle was four more lengths down. Southwood steered too far over to Surrey at Harrod's and Buckle drew up a little.

Guye led by 2½ lengths at Harrod's in 8 min. 31 sec., but from this point Southwood began to draw up. He had nearly caught his man at the Oil Mills, where there was a foul. At the bottom of the Eyot Southwood made his first big effort and went ahead.

At Chiswick Steps (13 min. 7 sec.) the Thames man led by half-a-length, but up Duke's Meadows first one led and then the other. Both took the Middlesex arch of Barnes Bridge (17 min. 50 sec.), but before they were clear there was another foul. Guye lost a good length, but with Southwood out in the centre he made a dash for the middlesex side.

Past the Brewery Guye was hard put to it to hold a lead and to avoid a foul and sculled over 30 to do this. In the last half-minute, however, Southwood put in a magnificent spurt and won by a length, with Buckle about five lengths behind. Had the Cambridge undergraduate not gone right out of the tide above Chiswick Steps he would undoubtedly have been much closer up at the finish.

BARRACKING WOULD HAVE BEEN STOPPED

Had English Team Complained.

N.S.W. STATEMENT ON THE "HILL" TROUBLE

Sydney, August 14.

The question of "barracking" by Test match spectators on the famous "Hill" at Sydney has been raised again by Mr. Harold Heyden, secretary of the New South Wales Cricket Association. In a statement he said:

"No complaint against barracking was made to any of our officials by the English cricketers. If any offensive barracking had been brought to the notice of the controlling bodies the necessary steps would have been taken to stamp it out."

"The only type of barracking to which exception can be taken is offensive barracking. The other is harmless. I think offensive barracking can be put down, and in the future the necessary steps will be taken to put it down."

"There is not offensive barracking to the same extent to-day as because of the increasing number there was in the past, apparently of women who are now frequenting the 'Hill' at Sydney. The average Australian will not stand for bad language before women."

"The M.C.C. asked the Board of Control to give barracking consideration, and probably something will be done by the Board."—Reuter.

They Did Complain.
The members of the M.C.C. team laid their complaints about barracking before the proper body—the M.C.C. committee. It would have been against all etiquette for them to have complained to Australian officials. That they did object to the methods of the "hill-dwellers" is evident from the following passage in the M.C.C. cable to the Board of Control:

"Barracking has, unfortunately, always been indulged in by spectators in Australia to a degree quite unknown in this country. During the late tour, however, it would appear to have exceeded all previous experience and on occasions to have become thoroughly objectionable."

"There appears to have been little or no effort on the part of those responsible for the administration of the game in Australia to interfere or to control this exhibition. This was naturally regarded by members of the team as a serious lack of consideration for them."

ficent spurt and won by a length, with Buckle about five lengths behind. Had the Cambridge undergraduate not gone right out of the tide above Chiswick Steps he would undoubtedly have been much closer up at the finish.

In the second round Meen forced the pace, and while doing well with his left was ducking cleverly and making Pettifer miss.

The Leicester man again jumped in with his left, but Pettifer stopped him just in time.

The first sensation came in the sixth round, when, with a left to the stomach, followed by a left to the jaw, Pettifer sent his man to the boards for a count of seven.

The Leicester man then alighted and tried to get up, with his left, but without success.

PASSING THROUGH H.K. IN JANUARY

JAPANESE R.U. MAY STOP GAMES EN ROUTE

(By Scrum Half.)

THERE is every possibility of the Combined Australian Universities Rugby Union team playing against the Hong Kong Rugby Club at the Valley in January when they pass through on their way to Japan.

Should this match not materialise the Australian team will play on Saturday, February 24, on their way back to the Commonwealth.

J. H. McElney, the Club skipper, said yesterday that he was awaiting a reply from the Australian manager. He was, however, pessimistic regarding the fixture in January as the Canadian team which visited Japan last year were not allowed to play matches en route, and he was afraid that the Japanese might force the Australians to adopt the same principles.

AUSTRALIAN RUGBY LEAGUE PLAYERS IN ACTION

Very Fast Side.

London, Aug. 17.

The Australian Rugby League team spent some time yesterday in practice on the Wembley Stadium ground, but this was only a preliminary to their serious training.

They appeared fast and in good form, and the manager, Mr. Harry Sunderland, considered they had managed to keep very fit during the long voyage. The players will inspect the Arsenal Stadium tomorrow and then engage in further practice.

An impressive moment occurred during a reception and luncheon given to the party by the Wembley Stadium authorities, when one minute's silence was observed in memory of Ray Morris, one of the team, who died during the journey from Australia.

The King, in reply to a telegram from Mr. A. J. Elvin, managing director of Wembley Stadium, wished the team every success.

Sir Noel Curtis Bennett, in a toast to "The Kangaroos," said that, although he had been brought up in the Rugby Union code, he was very impressed by the League game and thought there was nothing more spectacular.

Big Fish—Happy Fisherman

Hook a 35 pound musky for yourself like this one and then sympathize with J. A. Gibson of Toronto who fought for four and a half hours near French River Bungalow Camp 218 miles north of Toronto, to land it. It is the seventh musky to be caught near the camp by guests this season and was caught on Friday, July 21st, so fisherman's luck seems to be a complication of opinion. The scene took place late in the afternoon right in front of the outlying camp dock in full view of guests who lined the shore and started fires in order to see the fish, forgetting dinner and later celebrating the latest entry in the bungalow camp annual musky competition fittingly. Since every musky to date has practically been larger than the last, the winner of the challenge shield this year may become famous... if he can land it.

He tried to infuse a casual note into his voice.
"You are staying here, in London?"
"Yes."
"I'll arrange to have the boy brought to me this afternoon," he said, gently. "I will do everything within my power for him, Sonya."
"I know you will." She looked at him gratefully.

Blake Romney cured the boy. Every ounce of his ability and his skill was used to effect that cure. No time was spared, patience and tenderness, understanding and sympathy were splendid whole until the day came when Ronnie Warlock was well enough to return home.

During that time Sonya had seen but little of Blake. It was not until the last moment of Ronnie's convalescence that she found an opportunity of speaking to him alone. She tried to thank him, to make him realise all the gratitude that was in her heart, and failed miserably. Sincerity is never an eloquent prompter.

"I've liked having the boy here. He's a fine little chap," he told her quietly. "I shall miss him."
She glanced around the consulting room.

"You've been so kind, Blake. Far kinder than I dared to hope you would be."
He looked at her.

"Bitterness is not one of my failings," he said.
"Perhaps it is easy not to be bitter when things cease to have the power to hurt," she replied.

Difficult Days.
Blake Romney met her gaze.
"Once you were my wife, Sonya, it hasn't been very easy for me to forget that these last weeks. Perhaps that phase of it didn't occur to you?"

"If it had done I shouldn't have flattered myself that you would be moved by the remembrance," she answered, and her voice shook. "I behaved so badly to you—I didn't realise that until it was too late."

"There were times," he said, and his gaze didn't move from her face, "when I told myself that I was wrong to divorce you; but I wanted only your happiness. It seems now that I did the right thing after all."

Sonya avoided his scrutiny. She felt utterly tired. The deep peacefulness of the familiar room hurt her intolerably; she wanted to cry out against the pain that seemed ed to be suffocating her. She held out her hand in an attempt at saying good-bye.

"I shan't be seeing you again," she said, as she moved to the door. There she paused and looked back at him, fearfully.

"I made you suffer," she said quietly. "I broke up your home in search of what I believed to be my own happiness, but if it is any consolation to you there has been suffering on my side, too."

"Suffering?" He caught at his breath; his eyes were suddenly pleading.

"Yes," she whispered. "You see, after I'd left you, after it was too late, I realised that it was you whom I really loved." She stifled a sob and wrenched the door open.

"Sonya!" Blake Romney reached her in a stride the door was shut with a bang. "Why didn't you tell me that—Ronnie's father was dead?" he whispered.

She turned round, every vestige of colour drained from her cheeks.
"So you—know?" she said breathlessly.

"Ronnie told me," he answered gently. "I hoped that you would have wanted me to know."
"What difference would it have made?" she said. "Do you think that if I realised that you knew I would ever have told you what I told you just now?"

"That you love me?"
She looked into his eyes.
"My punishment has been as great as the wrong I did you," she said.

Beginning Again.
"Why didn't you want me to know that you were free?" His voice was uneven.

"Because I was afraid that you might misconstrue my coming to you; because I had my pride and would have died rather than allow you to think that I would have bothered you for anything else in the world—except Ronnie."

"And now?"
"I'm taking him back to Cornwall. We've a cottage on the coast—near Camelford." She tried to master her emotion. "Forgive me," she whispered brokenly, "for breaking into your life again."

"Forgive you." He moved towards her; his arms encircled her; his lips were crushed against hers. "I love you," he whispered. "I've never ceased to love you. We'll begin again."

1,500-YEAR-OLD JAR DISCOVERED.

Labour Trade Fortune For Bottle Of Wine.

Lisbon.
A gang of men working in a stone quarry at Guimaraes found an earthenware jar containing, amongst other things, some small metal bars.

They sold their find to the proprietor of a local wine shop for a bottle of wine apiece.

The metal bars have now proved to be of solid gold, while the jar and its contents are said to be at least 1,500 years old.—Reuter.

PERILOUS PLAYBOY OF THE WEST

De Valera governing Ireland by Coercion is laughable enough, and his fear of the Irish Republican Army is ominous. But if we have to reconquer Southern Ireland by English soldiers it will be no laughing matter. On the other hand, a friendly and amiable Ireland would be a great assistance to the scheme of tariff consolidation.

Before the fall of the last Labour Administration, South Africa concluded a commercial treaty with Germany, which included the old "most favoured nation" clause.

That, of course, renders impossible any future bargaining with Hitler.

Under the new fusion of Smith and Herzog, the first opportunity would be taken, we hope and believe, to announce the most favoured nation clause, which for nearly a century has been the stumbling block in the path of all tariff reformers.

ITALY'S LESSON TO AVIATION Value Of Armada Fright. ATLANTIC POSSIBILITIES

Now that the Italian air fleet under the command of General Balbo is safely in Europe, it is possible to sum up the value of their flight to the progress of aviation.

First, it will stand out as the first formation flight from Europe to America.

Given reasonably weather conditions, there was no reason why an Atlantic flight of aircraft flying together should not succeed.

It was known that their chief problem would be in flying through fog in formation.

That they accomplished this most dangerous part of their outward flight without mishap is a tribute to their navigation and airmanship.

General Balbo wisely decided not to risk it on the homeward flight. He chose the longer but more fog-free route by way of the Azores and Lisbon.

The flight has little value from the standpoint of commercial aviation development. It was a military spectacle. It had great value to Italy's prestige. As a means of "knowing the flag," it was as good as a visit by her whole Fleet to America.

The Fog Belt.

From a military viewpoint its value is even then small, because it is unlikely that any air fleet will invade Canada or fly through the fog belt of Newfoundland for any serious purpose.

Further, the seaplanes could not have lived in heavy seas had one of them been forced down through engine trouble. The future of ocean air travel lies more with the multi-engine flying boat which can ride the waters rather than with seaplanes. These aircraft were intended for coastal work on the Mediterranean, for which they are well suited.

British flying boats at present in use in the R.A.F. are far more seaworthy and suited to ocean-going work. A flight of them has flown to Singapore and then round Australia.

But the flight across the Arctic route has shown how that crossing can be navigated, and it is to this route that we must look for commercial flying to American in the near future.

The flight has shown that the route can be navigated. Colonel Lindbergh is already surveying part of it from America to Greenland. American interests are building fast flying boats to operate this route next year.

The present flight of Mr. John Grieson, who is trying to navigate the route by wireless rather than by compass, should lead to much useful data. The risks of magnetic disturbance to compasses from the North Magnetic Field are being investigated. Flying by directional wireless may prove the better method.

Americans Prepare.

Meteorological information has been slowly gathered together from many sources. The recent conference at Newfoundland, which was attended by our own Director of Civil Aviation, will ultimately have some bearing on a European-American air route.

The Italian victory has helped by its spectacular appeal to focus interest in this Arctic route and it will not be without its influence on the transatlantic air route which may open next year, if the American boats are ready.

Meanwhile, our own development of flying boats proceeds slowly. It is too much to hope that the Air Ministry may be able to reserve some of its estimates next year for serious development of flying boats for civil aviation as part from its rightful expenditure on flying boats for the R.A.F.

If we do not do so, we may find that whereas we have been pioneers in Atlantic flights and were the first to cross it both by airship and by a heavier-than-air machine, we may lose the ultimate victory to America.

WOULD HAVE IT ALL OVER AGAIN

Missionary's 30 Years
Of New Guinea.

"GREATEST LIFE IN THE WORLD"

Sydney.
After spending thirty-three years in Papua as a Methodist missionary, the Rev. M. K. Gilmour has returned to Sydney, where he intends to reside.

When asked whether he would accept the same call to the mission field if he had his youth over again, Mr. Gilmour replied that it was the greatest life in the world, and, if his youth were again given him, he would make for a place such as Papua, where a man had a real opportunity to use all his talents.

He said that there were such varied interests, and during his experience he had studied anthropology, building, technical problems, medicine and a number of other subjects. Furthermore, he had acquired practical knowledge, which was even better. "My wife and I have not lived a cramped life, as so many city folk do," he said.—Reuter.

JAPANESE CONSULS TO CONFER.

South China Envoys Invited To Formosa.

TO DISCUSS TRADE PROBLEM.

Shanghai, To-day.
A message from Amoy states that a conference of Japanese Consuls in South China will be held on September 21, in Formosa, under the auspices of the Governor of Formosa.

Japanese Consuls at Hong Kong, Canton, Foochow, Amoy and other ports in South China have been invited to attend the conference.

It is learned that the purpose of the conference is to devise means to deal with the "emergency situation" in South China, particularly to restore Japanese trade to its previous position.

CHINA FLIGHT PROGRESS.

Sun Tung-kang Flying To Shanghai.

Nanking, yesterday.
Mr. Sun Tung-kang who has planned a flight around China, took off for Shanghai at 9.30 yesterday morning. He is being accompanied by a schoolmate.

He will stay at Shanghai for this week-end before continuing his flight to Hangchow.—Central News Agency.

CORNWALL SAILS TO-MORROW

Ceremonial Departure.

CHEERS BY MASSES SHIP COMPANIES.

H.M.S. Cornwall of the Fifth Cruiser Squadron, attached to the China Station, will leave for England to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock and will fly the paying-off pennant.

All of H.M. ships' companies in the harbour will be massed on the North Arm of H.M. Dockyard and three cheers will be given as the Cornwall leaves her anchorage.

The following officers of His Majesty's forces in China will be leaving Hong Kong to-morrow morning on the Cornwall for England:—

Capt. R. E. C. Oxley-Boyle, Queen's Regiment; Surg. Lieut. V. J. Fielding, R.N.; Lieut. Comdr. K. W. Deard, of H.M.S. Eagle; Warrant Officer B. J. Hoare, of the Royal Naval Hospital; Capt. J. A. Chapel, R.A.M.C. and Midshipmen Healop, Luther, Harper, Tennyson and Cowley.

3 Submarines Due

H.M. Submarine Oswald, Osiris and Phoenix are expected to arrive in Hong Kong on Saturday from Wei-hai-wei, for rest after their summer exercises.

The Band of the 1st Battalion, the South Wales Borderers will be in attendance and will play when the ship leaves.

BANDIT MENACE IN LUENTUNG AREA.

War Refugees Refuse To Return.

CHINA SEEKS JAPAN'S AID.

Peking, to-day.
General Ho Ying-ching, Chairman of the Peking Military Council, is finding difficulty in suppressing bandits in the Luentung districts owing to the insufficient number of armed police forces stationed there.

There are still a large number of refugees from the late "war," who refuse to return to their native villages because there is no guarantee of safety and peace.

Mr. Yin Tung, member of Luentung Retrocession Commission, has suggested to Major Shibayama, Military Attache to the Japanese Legation, a scheme for Sino-Japanese co-operation to suppress bandits in Luentung. However, no decision is expected to be reached in this direction until the return of General Huang Fu.—Central News Agency.

Four Indian watchmen, Wali Dad, Mohamed Ashar, Shih Dad and Sakander Khan, were charged this morning at the Central Police Court with stealing and receiving a considerable sum of money and a quantity of clothing, the property of Sher Mohamed, another Indian watchman, who was in the point of leaving for India on retirement. The case is proceeding.
